26. The Affluent Society. ... As a landmark moment in American history, Brown's significance perhaps lies less in immediate tangible changes—which were slow, partial, and inseparable from a much longer chain of events—than in the idealism it expressed and the momentum it created. The nation's highest court had attacked one of the ...

Even though the "Era of Good Feelings" seemed to be harmonious, sectional differences arose. People living in the Northeast, the South, and the West were developing their own attitudes and viewpoints. These differences developed from the special economic concerns of each section and the efforts of politicians to pass legislation in Congress that favored each section's concerns. From th...
