~~Slavery was part of the larger strategy to depopulate the land to make way for European settlers. As early as 1636 after the Pequot war in which 300 Pequots were massacred, those who remained were sold into slavery and sent to Bermuda. Major slaving ports included Boston, Salem, Mobile and New Orleans.~~

Daniel Usner's Indians, Settlers, and Slaves in a Frontier Economy demonstrates that the idea of the Old South of both postwar and colonial southern history should not obscure historians' views of the Deep South before Americans colonized it. We should not read antebellum racism, relationships, and categories back into the deeper past.
